Why Utah?

“I never imagined it would be so beautiful” is a comment frequently heard in The Graduate School. “My professors treated me like a colleague” is another. The fact is, Utah offers graduate students far more than they expect—a program of the highest caliber, in a place of spectacular beauty. Even with an introduction, Utah may surprise you, for, in the end, graduate study is beyond imagining. It's discovering what happens next.
WELCOME TO THE UNIVERSITY OF UTAH GRADUATE ADMISSIONS APPLICATION.

If you are interested in applying to the S.J. Quinney College of Law, please do not use this application. You may email admissions@law.utah.edu for instructions on how to apply for Law School.

HOW TO APPLY FOR GRADUATE ADMISSIONS

The following information will assist you in applying for admission to graduate studies. Most applicants will use the online ApplyYourself application system, accessible from your academic program’s website. The ApplyYourself application system is ADA compliant.

This PDF version of our graduate admissions application is made available for use by the following applicants:

- An applicant, without access to the online ApplyYourself admissions application.
- An applicant that is a graduate student at the University of Utah, who did not maintain continuous registration and did not file a formal “Leave of Absence” form and now wishes to be reinstated to the same graduate program.

If you do not fall into one of the above categories, please go to www.gradschool.utah.edu. You will find a link to all graduate programs offered at the University of Utah by going to Prospective Students > Admission Requirements > Graduate Admissions. Click on your program of interest and hit GO to locate the program you wish to study. You will find the link for the ApplyYourself online application at the website of each graduate program. You will also find instructions on how to apply. Because each graduate program has its own admissions procedures and deadlines, you are strongly encouraged to review the academic program’s web site or contact the department directly to determine its admissions procedures.

Sponsor's Statement

Students who are being sponsored by their family, other individuals or agencies must have their sponsor submit a statement that they (the sponsor) will assume financial responsibility for the student's first year expenses, including tuition and living expenses.

In addition, the sponsor must submit a bank statement or other proof that sufficient funds are available for the student's first year of study.

The International Admissions Division can supply an official Affidavit of Support for the sponsor to complete. Otherwise, the sponsor's statement must be notarized or submitted on an official document or letterhead.

If a student is being sponsored by their Embassy, Government, or Educational Agency, a letter of sponsorship is all that is required.

No action will be taken until your application, transcripts, and appropriate fees or certification form have been received by the University Office of Admissions. In addition, the academic department will take no action until all university and departmental admissions requirements have been met.

An offer of acceptance is valid only for the semester the applicant is admitted.

If an applicant does not register for classes during his/her admitted term, the applicant must resubmit an admissions application and fee before the application deadline for the semester he/she wishes to begin. Once admitted and enrolled, graduate students are required by Graduate School policy to maintain continuous registration during the academic year of fall and spring semesters. If a graduate student must stop out, he/she should file the appropriate paperwork for an “Official Leave of Absence.” Students failing to maintain continuous registration and who have not been granted an official leave of absence must reapply for admission by submitting an application and fee to the University Office of Admissions.
